WRITES OF JOURNEY TO FAMOUS RESORT

JANESVILLE MAN VISITS BLOCK ISLAND OFF THE RHODE ISLAND COAST.

AN INTERESTING TRIP

Impressions of the Place Made Famous in History of the Early Colonies.

Walter Stuart and wife, who are visiting in the east, have turned their faces homeward, but the following letter on their visit to Block Island proves interesting reading: The letter is as follows:

Block Island, R. I., Aug. 21, 1911.

The steamer leaves New London, Connecticut at ten o'clock in the morning, having left Norwich at eight twenty o'clock and en route to Block Island stops at Watch Hill to take on and to leave passengers for that place.

Boarding the steamer at the forward freight dock one must make his way aft by passing under the shaft that drives the side wheels of the vessel to the stairway that leads to the saloon deck which is the main deck of the ship. Here there are seats inside the cabin or saloon and both forward and aft are open spaces where one may find a camp stool and make himself easy while enjoying the panorama which unfolds itself. The forward deck is the more popular but in many cases the after deck is preferable because scenes do not seem to change so rapidly and the continuity of the view remains unbroken. Above the saloon deck is entirely unsheltered and only a few places on it are comfortable. Here the life boats swing in their davits; here are the ventilators which carry fresh air down to the engine room and stoke holds; the pilot house; the funnel and the large diamond-shaped arms that propel the side wheels. On this deck smoking is allowed.

Leaving the wharf the steamer passes between Fort Trumbull on the west and the old revolutionary fort of Groton on the east. In the harbor is found all sorts of craft from the graceful yacht of the millionaire to the humble dory of the fisherman; from the lumbering barge and collier to the finest types of warships of the United States navy.

Numerous lighthouses, bell buoys and stakes indicate the dangerous shoals that lurk a few feet below the rippling surface of the sound at the entrance to the New London harbor. Passing these the ship enters the "Race," the stretch where the Atlantic Ocean meets the Long Island Sound. About two miles east of the "Race" we pass "Ham's Island Light-ship No. 23," a medium-sized ship anchored to warn passing craft of a dangerous reef. This ship remains in position year after year, warning by night with two lights at mastheads and boll. In foggy and snowy weather the signal is a deep blast of a horn continued about thirty seconds and repeated every two minutes. The crews of these light ships are often called on to save lives in wrecks. About ten miles east of the light-ship a stop is made at Watch Hill, at present a beautiful seashore resort, but in early days said to have been the hill from which the settlers watched for ships from Europe. Several beautiful hotels are erected here and the place is very popular as an ocean resort. It is easily accessible from New England cities by steam, trolley and boat transportation.

Leaving Watch Hill a sail of about an hour and a half on the open coast is enjoyed before entering the harbor of Block Island.

Block Island belonged originally to the Narragansett Indians who called it "Manhasset," which is said to signify "the Isle of the Little God." It was visited by Verrazano in 1524. The history of the island concerns and their legends of the Indian owners and their enemy from the mainland, the Mohican Indians. The present name of the island is derived from Adrian Block, a Dutch navigator who made a sort of settlement there about 1637.

On the island are over one hundred ponds varying in size from an insignificant pool to Great Pond which covers one thousand acres. This pond, whose greatest depth is twelve fathoms, is supplied with water from the sea, which becomes freshened by filtering through the sand. Several smaller ponds are supplied in the same way.

Originally this island was covered with a heavy growth of forest trees. In the valleys are now almost inextinguishable beds of peat formed from vegetable matter washed down the hillsides into the ponds. One peat bed found at the shore and traced in to the ocean a quarter of a mile from high-water mark, furnishes good fuel. During the revolution the island was completely stripped of trees.

About two-thirds of the inhabitants are engaged in farming, carrying on about four hundred farms. The greater part of the remainder are fishermen. The climate of the island is distinctly "maritime." The temperature is very even, seldom rising to eighty degrees. The atmosphere is bracing and has a tonic stimulating effect.

There is no natural harbor at Block Island and in order to allow vessels of large tonnage to enter an artificial harbor has been constructed. The breakwater constructed by P. Hopkinson Smith, extends from the eastern side of the island for one thousand feet in a north easterly direction; then two hundred feet from the end a second section starts, running more nearly north for a distance of three hundred feet. Shanty houses, three thousand and its cost was $155,000.

The fishing off Block Island is unsurpassed. There is fine cod fishing, blue fishing and tautog fishing. During July the waters teem with swordfish averaging two hundred and fifty pounds and sometimes reaching double that weight. Sword-fishing provides a very exciting sport.

Several hotels and restaurants cater to the tourist trade. A "shore dinner" is served at fifty cents a menu and the serving of which is as follows: Fish or clam chowder in large bowls from which the diner helps himself. Steamed clams, drawn butter, boiled or fried fresh fish, home-made brown and white bread, boiled potatoes, beans, cucumbers, green corn, hot or cold tea or coffee, pudding, pie or watermelon. Everything is served family style and there is usually too much. There is music, too.

Excursion rates to the island from Newburgh and New London are seventy-five cents and at certain times the same fare obtains from New York City to Block Island, a distance of about one hundred and thirty miles.

Circle by waters that never freeze, Bitten by billow and swept by breeze, Lie the island of Manhasset.

J. G. Whittier.

CELEBRATION PLANS ARE NEARLY FINISHED

Carpenters' and Joiners' Union Has Nearly Finished Its Preparations For A Good Big Celebration.

Victors who attend the big celebration to be given on Labor Day by the Carpenters' and Joiners' Union at the Fair Grounds, will not be disappointed in the program which will entertain them, according to the plans so far carried out by the Union.

There will be horse races, motorcycle races, bicycle races, foot races and so on through the whole list of sports. Ten horses have been entered in the races so far, in two classes, class one for a fifty dollar purse, and class two for a forty dollar purse. A number of the horses are owned by Block County men, and some good live competition may be looked for.

There will be three motorcycle races with probably twenty-five or more entries, and here to some class racing should be brought forth for the prizes that have been offered. The bicycle and foot races should entertain the crowd well, as will the drill which it is planned to have the Boy Scouts give in the afternoon.

But the program does not end here, for a ball game is scheduled to take place between the Barker Peer team and a picked team which will be chosen from the rest of the Commercial league. This game should be a good one for there are a number of capable players scattered among the various teams of the League.

Throughout the whole day, the time will be made to pass quickly by the music furnished by the Tower City Band, which has been secured for the day. This will be one of the star attractions of the day, for the band is giving high class performances. The day will be well capped by a dance in the evening at Assembly hall, where the same band will provide the inspiration.

A large crowd is expected to attend the celebration from surrounding towns, for the event has been heralded for and wide, and bills telling of Janesville's second big celebration of the year, have been posted in all the towns within a wide radius. The Union is planning a good time for all who come.

TO INSPECT THE BANKS OF RIVER

City Officials Will View Premises Along River to See If Health Orders Have Been Carried Out.

An inspection of the banks of the river following the serving of notices on property-owners and tenants to remedy existing conditions, will be made the fore part of the week by Mayor John C. Nichols, Health Officer Dr. M. A. Cunningham, and City Attorney H. L. Maxfield to determine to what extent the property-owners have carried out the orders given. Action, however, may not be taken immediately except in cases where those upon whom the notices have been served have failed to comply with the order to clean up rubbish. In the case of privy vaults emptying into the river, the decision of Attorney William Langer, who is revising the city ordinances, as to the legality of the ordinance prohibiting such vaults, will be awaited. In the main, it is thought, the orders have been carried out.

HORRIBLE CREATURE OF RIVER CAUGHT

Terrible Monster of the Deep Is Put on Exhibition; Workmen's Terrors Are Relieved by Capture.

"The sea serpent has been captured!" This was the news spread abroad last night and this morning, and amid much excitement, many people went to view the horrible creature that had infested the beautiful rock, and cast terror into the hearts of the men working near the upper dam. But great was the disappointment of the gullible parties who went to see the remains.

Having never seen a sea serpent, we cannot tell whether or not this creature or creature was such, but people may judge for themselves from the following description: Its body is a small fish perhaps a foot long, in a very advanced state of decay; along its back runs a row of terrible saw teeth, very sharp and cut from steel; its tail is a piece of red and white cotton rag. This is the huge animal which this morning was confined in a small box behind the Rock River Machine company, and which, if its state would allow, probably remained throughout the day, making the workmen shudder when they thought of the danger that had been near them.

Do not fail to attend the motorcycle races tomorrow and see Charles De Sova, world's champion motor cyclist, who will be entered in three of the events. It will be a record-breaking meet, and if you enjoy seeing records smashed, you want to be there.

Home-Made Bulb Dish. There was a beautiful vase accidentally dropped and broken into so many pieces that it could not possibly be put together again. All the pieces were carefully gathered up and put away. Next a small pudding dish was brought and then some putty. The pieces of the vase were broken up into sizes from a half-inch to an inch, no larger. The putty was then softened and smoothed with a knife along the outer sides of the dish; then the small pieces of china were stuck into the putty, very close together, but not overlapping each other, and when finished there was a beautiful bowl for Chinese lilies or any kinds of plants. The putty was put on to a depth of about a quarter of an inch. The new bowl was quite as much admired as the old vase had been, and was almost as satisfactory.—Suburban Life.

FAIR AND AVIATION
MEET AT LINE CITY

Janesville People Will Be Interested in Events Scheduled at Beloit Next Week.

Beloit, Aug. 25.—Officers of the first annual making ready for the first annual exhibition of the Wisconsin county fair, and the first aviation meet to be held in southern Wisconsin—we say southern Wisconsin, because South Beloit, Illinois, where those events will be held, is just across the Wisconsin line in Illinois—less than half a mile from the city of Beloit. If what is accomplished on August 29, 30, 31 and September 1, the dates on which these stirring events take place, comes up to present expectations, records in events of this kind are sure to be broken.

Even the shrewdest hardly could guess how many people will see this great aviation meet and fair. The course laid out, and other conditions of the fair grounds, make it possible for thousands to witness the aeroplane flights from start to finish.

Glenn H. Curtiss, the famous American aviator, will send one of his most skilled and daring biplanes, who will use a new Curtiss biplane equipped with all the latest appliances, making the possibility of accident very small indeed.

Two flights daily will be made in the aeroplane on August 30, 31 and September 1st. It will be the biggest thing any fair ever had—in fact it is a state fair proposition—but the officers of the Wisconsin fair association, after much discussion decided to put on this monstrous attraction for the benefit of the public.

BELOIT TEAM WON
BY CLOSE MARGIN

Local Golf Team Worsted by One Point by Beloit Players at Latona Links Yesterday.

By the close margin of one point the team of local golfers which met the team of the Beloit country club were defeated at the latter's links yesterday afternoon. Out of the seven pairs, four of the Janesville men won out, but the total number of holes gave the Beloit players the match. The playing, which was for eighteen holes, started at two o'clock, and following the match dinner was served in the club dining room.

The players were matched as follows:
Schaller won from Morgan.
Burnham lost to Osborn.
Grant lost to Watson.
Whitlock won from Hackett.
Parnsworth lost to Dickey.
Kirkland won from Griffith.

TO THE BIG EIGHT

Marquette University Proposes a Trust-making Campaign in Athletics—Against Conference Eight.
[Special to this Gazette.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 25.—Marquette university is proposing a trust-making campaign in athletics, with the Big Eight conference of the universities of Illinois, Chicago, Wisconsin, Indiana, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Purdue as the object of the attack.

The plan of Marquette is to organize a new group of colleges and universities for athletic purposes in case of a continued opposition to Marquette's football enterprise by the Big Eight conference which is considered here as an athletic trust. Marquette realizes that the Big Eight has every right to forbid its own members to play Marquette, but objects to the conference managers interfering to prevent outside teams getting games with the Milwaukee school. This was done in the case of Denver university, which was anxious to come to Milwaukee to play a return for last season's game in the Pike's Peak town, and Denver was warned that it would have difficulty making up a schedule, if Marquette was made part of the program. The Denver people saw the light, left Marquette off the list, and a schedule was easily prepared.

Marquette's idea is to group the Jesuit colleges and universities of the middle west, if not of the entire country, into a formal conference with strict eligibility rules, playing regulations, and all safeguards against professionalism in collegiate athletics. These schools would thus form an alliance with each other to prevent the conference members from carrying out their plan of monopolizing big game athletics.

St. Louis university has had the same trouble getting games that Marquette has experienced. Marquette already has an informal alliance with Creighton university, the big Omaha Jesuit school, and with Loyola, the Chicago Catholic university. Notre Dame, though not a Jesuit school, has experience in conducting itself as has Marquette, and Marquette and Notre Dame are already fast allies. The plan now is to extend this alliance. Among the schools which would be included in the compact are St. Xavier's, of Cincinnati; St. Mary's, at St. Marys, Kansas; which are already maintaining strong athletic teams, in addition to St. Louis, Creighton and Marquette previously mentioned, and the Jesuit schools at Detroit, Toledo, Cleveland are also to be included, when their athletic teams warrant admission to the big school class of athletics.

ARRANGEMENTS ALL
COMPLETE FOR BIG
MOTORCYCLE MEET

Everything in Readiness for Races at the Fair Grounds Tomorrow Afternoon in Which Some of Best Known Riders Are Entered.

Manager Harry McDaniel, of the motor racing committee of the Janesville Park association, this morning measured the mile course at the fair grounds for the motorcycle races to be held tomorrow afternoon and marked off the quarters on the track. All arrangements for the big event have been completed and a mammoth crowd is expected, will be out for the day of sport. Twenty of the motorcycle riders will arrive this evening from the Capitol City to back their men, Small and Stevens, who are entered in some of the events, and a number are expected here from Beloit, Rockford, Rockton, Monroe and other nearby places where there are motorcycle enthusiasts. Small and Stevens will arrive here this evening with the Madison delegation and "Daredevil Cy" (Cyrus Wade) of Milwaukee, the twenty-two year old speed wonder, will be another of the "meat" here tonight. Others who will be here tomorrow, have shipped their machines to Mr. McDaniel.

As the array of entries as could be secured for an event of the kind is listed in the various events tomorrow afternoon. The meet has been widely advertised and motor men from all over will be here to participate in or see the big meet. There are twenty-seven standard entries, besides the entries in the private owners' and novice classes, which will be large. Among the number will be Charles de Savo, amateur champion of the world, who is entered in three events. De Savo will come here tomorrow morning from Milwaukee. Other noted riders will be here for the contests.

The track is in the best of condition and the chances for establishing new records on a mile track are splendid. As a final preparation for putting it in shape for the meet tomorrow it will be sprinkled well and rolled down with the steam roller tonight. As an extra precaution against any accident, Mr. McDaniel, with a number of boys, will go over the course carefully tonight to remove any glass or other debris that might cause punctures or other accidents. The races will start at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Eliza Curpee.
The funeral of Mrs. Eliza Curpee will be held from her late residence, 203 Pleasant street, Saturday afternoon at two-thirty, Rev. David Beaton officiating.

Winnipeg, Canada, is the destination of the travelers, but from there they will spread out and take up the new lands opened up to them under the new policy of the Canadian government, which gives a farm and equipment to any man who will live there for ten years.

THE STRIKE PROBLEM.

American working men are watching anxiously the outcome of the wage problem as represented by the recent strike in the railroad circles of England. While the matter is practically settled, yet yet remains the element of doubt as to what will be the ultimate end of the whole affair. "To-day's" dispatches announce the possibility of labor trouble on the Harlan lines. Should this come about it would doubtless affect other systems the country over. Some exchanges have stated there is to be a drastic cut in the wages of the railway workers and in handling this subject the New York Wall Street Journal takes up the end of the corporations that may be affected in the following manner:

"These wages are demonstrably too high, in the sense that they represent more than the work is worth measured by the wealth which it creates. The impossibilities are rather in the Examiner's reasons, when it is said that the President promised the railroads permission to increase rates after the general wage increases granted last summer, and that, thanks to the Interstate Commerce Commission, this pledge had not been kept."

It goes back a bit into the history of the railroad troubles and adds:

"There was one unfortunate case in our Presidential history where the President interfered in the wage question, and this was in 1908. Not only was a cut in wages due, but the unions themselves would have raised no opposition to a 10 per cent reduction, an entirely credible witness can prove. Mr. Roosevelt would have none of it, having the presidential election of 1908 dominantly before his eyes. Wages were maintained by the less satisfactory expedient of laying off hands. The men and their leaders got the idea then that there was some power which could defy the plainest of economic laws, and the present condition is one of the results of Mr. Roosevelt's interference on that occasion. Among all the performances which I accomplished in the two fateful last years of his tenure of office, nothing showed a more astonishing lack of economic foresight."

"But if the railroads of the northwest or anywhere else think that advancing rates will help them, their views on the law of diminishing returns are about as crude as those of Mr. Roosevelt. Advanced rates in times when business is poor, and there is keen competition for what little offers, make exactly the difference between a small but certain profit and operating at a loss. In the result the return from the new and higher rate is smaller than that at the old one, while so far from helping labor the amount displaced is more than that employed."

"We have always maintained that the railroads should tackle the wage problem courageously. They are all terrified of cutting wages, and the Harlan roads, therefore, are laying off hands right and left, which is economically a wasteful alternative. What the roads should do, in all fairness to the men and their stockholders, is to offer the alternative of a reduction in wages, together with full employment, equivalent to the amount retrenched by the saving of the wages of the men discharged."

"There must surely be some among the union leaders, and so far as the men themselves are concerned, we are convinced that there are many, who are capable of appreciating this elementary appeal to reason."

THE BOY SCOUTS.

Few residents of Janesville really appreciate the significance of the Boy Scout movement. The gentlemen who are giving their time and energy to wards making successful the movement here, are most enthusiastic over the results thus far obtained.

Originating in England with Gen. Sir Robert Baden-Powell, the early appreciation and approval of it by Ernest Thompson Seton were the cause of its taking root in the United States, where it now has an enrollment of nearly half a million members. They come from slums and from city palaces, from suburban villas and village cottages. So large has been the tide of boyhood and youth, seeking guidance and rushing into the movement, that a doubling of the advisory and administrative staff has been necessary, and the inspiring dimensions of the work have had the natural effect of enlisting a larger caliber of officers than otherwise would have volunteered.

In Janesville the corps is rapidly increasing. The teaching of the organization, the discipline of the young boys of the city will all have its effect. Already the honor of wearing the pin that Scouts can have, has attracted many and when school opens it is safe to say that many more recruits will be added to the already growing list.

The main virtue of the organization is not in its quasi-military form of organization or in its military drill, but in its skillful utilization for civil ends of the natural craving of all normal boys to co-operate with others. In this organization the boy is correlated for a process of discipline that unconsciously, in most cases, develops him mentally, morally and physically.

while he thinks that he simply is having a good time. He is taught the duty of obedience and of truth telling. His powers of observation of nature and of discerning human peculiarities and eccentricities are sharpened. He is pledged to and made to live up to ideals of chivalry and of service to those in special need. He is given simple but fundamental lessons in patriotism and citizenship in the guise of homely instruction that teaches him to side invariably with enforcers rather than with breakers of law, a lesson that city youth much need to learn.

It is the foe of sloth, softness, over-emphasis on book learning, snobbishness, impurity and aimlessness. It must inevitably increase the number of men who will love nature as a friend. Its old-fashioned code of chivalry must in time bring about a renaissance of good manners and of deference to women. It will furnish to the schools pupils with more zeal for work and a keener desire for useful knowledge. We trust it will lay foundations in cities upon which school and state can build a better fabric than in the past.

Congress accumulated a fine collection of votes during its special session. Those two new states will hasten to get all the dust out of their hair so they can not be called the Desert Orphans any longer.

All France is disturbed by the loss of the Mona Lisa from the place it has so long occupied. No one as yet has thought to look over Morgan's collection to see if it is there.

That problem of discovering how much the city really lost by the recent railway rate commission's decision is keeping the mathematicians busy these days.

Controller Day is having a fine time entertaining Secretary Fisher, who is doing a bit of nice angling for real facts in the much-talked-of Alaskan case.

Talking about civic expenses, it will not be long before the city will have to have a new bridge across the river at Milwaukee street.

Los Angeles policemen are to wear roller skates. What an inducement for the small boy to long to be a policeman when he grows up.

The council has ordered in several walks where they were most needed and the work of improving the city goes on merrily.

Laundrymen prefer Pittsburgh for their convention in 1912. There is a reason for this, perhaps.

What is Andrew Carnegie doing to beat Dr. Pearson in the old and honorable game of "give-away"?

Champ Clark's conversation would lead one to believe that he really believed all he said.

Turkey is getting ready to spend ten million dollars on its harbor facilities.

For those who like that kind of excitement auto racing is just the thing.

My home should be a home of peace, there everything is slick as grease. The wolves don't have a chance to roar around my handsome cottage door—they soon get it in the neck, the horn of plenty is on deck; the larder's full of cake and jam, and codfish balls and hot bunch of kids would be as gay as katydids, if I could but my home enjoy, and not let outside the sunny. But I must fret my darning foot and o'er such things as Alaska's coal, the sales of those blundered Guggenheims, and Rockefeller-morgans's cruises. The wicked tariff makes no sense; our naval needs I can't forget, and when I hear that Hubert man predicting warfare with Japan, all sunshine leaves my haunted life, and I get up and beat my wife. I can't indulge in harmless chaff; I can't enjoy my promograph; I can't return my wife's kind looks, or get much comfort from my books, because the referendum fiasco has filled me with a blue rain ache. What blooming fools we mortals be! With Old Bill Shakespeare I agree, Our lives might be serene and calm, and Glend would give its bath. If we from grief would sleep aside, and take the gifts the gods provide.

Do not fail to attend the motorcycle races tomorrow and see Charles De Savi, world's champion motor cyclist, who will be entered in three of the events. It will be a record-breaking meet, and if you enjoy seeing records smashed, you want to be there.

Forty-eight firms have taken advantage of the Wisconsin industrial commission notice of their election to come under the operation of the workmen's compensation law. The total number of employees represented is 10,038, the largest number being those of the Milwaukee Railway and Light company, which reports 4,165.

The law goes in operation Sept. 1 and those corporations whose elections now are filed, or may be before Sept. 1, will come at once under the law. Elections may be made at any time thereafter, however.

The question of the constitutionality of the law is before the supreme court and will be taken up by that body at the September session, and probably passed upon soon thereafter.

Besides the elections already filed the law provides that all municipalities, cities, villages, counties and the state itself are subject to its provisions, and the employees of such corporations come within its operation without election.

Following are those who have filed, together with the number of employees reported:

BURGLARS ROBBED THE PALMER HOME; TOOK SILVERWARE

MR. AND MRS. W. F. PALMER ON THEIR RETURN HOME FROM ALTOONA, FIND BURGLARS HAD VISITED THEM.

LOSS IS NOT KNOWN

Men, Evidently Experts, Secured Entrance Through Rear Window Which They Pried Open With Jimmy.

When Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Palmer returned last evening from their summer outing, spent at Altoona, Wisconsin, they discovered that burglars had visited their home during their absence. Mr. and Mrs. Palmer left Janesville by auto, early in July, and the thieves have had ample time to complete their work without the exact date being known. Entrance was gained through a rear window, the screen removed and a jimmy used to pry open the window catch. That the house was thoroughly ransacked is evidenced by the inspection of the premises. Several pieces of solid silver tableware was taken, but hand-some knives, clocks and other articles of value were untouched. The thieves were evidently in the house during the night for burnt matches and candle grease were found. The beds were turned open and the mattresses searched for a hidden treasure and some articles taken down stairs and left on the tables on the lower floor and evidently either forgotten by the burglars or left behind purposely. Mr. Palmer could not estimate his loss accurately as some of the silverware was taken north with them, and until it returns he can not discover just what was taken. The only clue the thieves left was a torn piece of paper from the Saturday Evening Post which bore the date of July 29th, after the Palmers had left Janesville.

WOMEN APPLAUD MOB FOR LYNCHING NEGRO

Citizens of Purcell, Okla., Burn Assaultant of White Woman—Sheriff Locked Up.

Purcell, Okla., Aug. 25.—A mob of 3,000 citizens and farmers captured Peter Carter, a negro identified as the assaultant of Mrs. Paul Spraggins, and burned him alive. Women and children applauded the mob in its gruesome task.

Mrs. Spraggins was attacked while alone in her home one mile south of Purcell. After the deed the negro set fire to the Spraggins home. Mrs. Spraggins' husband saw the flames while working in the field and rushed into the house in time to rescue his wife. She declared that Carter, who formerly worked on the Spraggins farm, had attacked her. She is not expected to live.

Officers went to Carter's home and arrested him. He was turned over to a constable, but on the way to jail Carter escaped.

Highly excited, a negro janitor, noticed a strange negro riding under a box car near the Oklahoma Central railway station. With the aid of two other negroes who had armed themselves to aid in the search for Mrs. Spraggins' assailant, the janitor pulled Carter from beneath the car. He was taken to the main street in Purcell, where a great crowd had gathered.

"Turn that nigger over to me," said a tall farmer, who assumed command of the crowd.

Sheriff Hayes pleaded with the mob, saying the negro would be given an immediate trial; that there would be no chance for him to escape. After Hayes had concluded the officers were fed the courthouse, presumably to confer with some of the leaders. As they entered a room in the building the key was turned in the lock and the officers were held prisoners until the negro was dead.

ALABAMA COUNTY GOES 'WET'

Jefferson Votes Out Prohibitionists—'Dry' Since 1908.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 25.—By a majority ranging between 1,000 and 2,000, Jefferson county, the largest county in Alabama, including Birmingham, voted out prohibition that has been in effect since January 1, 1908, and decided on the return of regulated saloons.

The campaign was bitterly fought, the prohibitionists being assisted by Congressmen Richard Pearson Hobson, William D. Upshaw, the Georgia evangelist, and other notables. The four city boxes returned majorities ranging from 200 to 250 majority each for the saloons. Less than one hundred saloons will be allowed in Jefferson county under the new law.

CURTISS CRAFT IS DAMAGED

Hugh Robinson, Flying Over Water, Has Pontoon Stove In.

Astoria, Ore., Aug. 25.—Hugh Robinson had a thrilling experience here with the Curtiss hydroaeroplane. Robinson was just starting out in very rough water when his propeller struck a large wave and broke. One piece of it cut a large hole in one of the pontoons, which partially filled with water. The aeroplane turned over backwards and floated upside down. Robinson refused to leave his ship and perched on top of the upturned boat, directing the towing of the disabled alrship to the side of the launching barge. The accident occurred directly in front of the grandstand and created great excitement.

TAFT BUSY PLAYING GOLF

Mal. Dutt Accompanies President on Vacation.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 25.—President Taft began his first vacation of any length since he went to Augusta, Ga., last spring. The president reached Boston shortly after nine o'clock. On his private car the president donned his golf robe and he was soon out on the Myopia links with Major Butt, Secretary Miles opened up the executive office and in the mail from Washington was another score of requests for a few hours of the president's time on his western trip.

In answer to a telegram of greeting from the national encampment, United States War Veterans in convention at Oklahoma City, Okla., President Taft sent a telegram of thanks.

TRAIL NEW 'MONA LISA' CLEW.

Police Hear of Man Jumping Train Near Louisville.

Paris, Aug. 25.—M. Droux, the examining magistrate who is conducting the inquiry into the disappearance of Leonardo da Vinci's great painting, "Mona Lisa," is at last in possession of a clew which he hopes will prove the starting point of profitable investigation.

A Parisian official has come forward with the information that he saw a tall, stout individual, who appeared greatly agitated, carrying a large panel covered with a horse blanket. The man jumped on the 7:47 express for Bordeaux as it was pulling out of the Quai d'Orsay station.

Alfred Bayless, Aug. 25.—Alfred Bayless, Ill., former state superintendent of public instruction, was fatally hurt near here when his horse, frightened at an automobile, ran away and threw Mr. Bayless out of a buggy.

Do not fail to attend the motorcycle races tomorrow and see Charles De Sova, world's champion motor cyclist, who will be entered in three of the events. It will be a record-breaking meet, and if you enjoy seeing records smashed, you want to be there.

THREE OF FAMILY SLAIN; OFFICIALS SUSPECT SON

Father, Mother and Brother Murdered While They Slept—House Is Fired.

Boonville, Ind., Aug. 25.—Richard Lee, aged fifty; Mrs. Richard Lee, aged fifty-two; and a son, Clarence Lee, aged seventeen, were murdered in their home and an attempt made to conceal the triple crime by burning the house and the bodies.

When firemen reached the house it was blazing on all sides. Trying to make an entrance, they discovered that all the doors and windows were locked, breaking them down, the firemen found the incriminated bodies of Lee, his wife and his boy.

Examination of the bodies resulted in the discovery that the skulls of the father and mother had been crushed with a hammer. The boy had been shot.

Hobbs, it is believed, was the motive. The Lees, consisting of parents and two children, had sold property in Newburg and divided the money. The mother and father and younger boy took their money and went back to their home in Boonville. The older son, William, who is 21 years old, remained in Newburg and then returned to Boonville after his family had gone to bed. William was arrested on the charge of murder. The sheriff of Warrick county took him in to custody.

ELECT NUGENT'S SUCCESSOR

E. E. Grosscup Chairman of Jersey Democratic State Committee.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 25.—Following the depositing of James R. Nugent of Essex county as state chairman at Asbury Park two weeks ago, amid great turbulence, for his insult to Governor Wilson, in which he called the executive an "Ingrate and a liar," the Democratic state committee elected Edward E. Grosscup of Gloucester county as state chairman, unanimously.

The most stirring event of the meeting was a speech by Congressman Kinkead of Jersey City, who declared that there was an absolute and an almost unanimous sentiment in both houses of congress for Wilson for the Democratic presidential nomination. The members of congress with whom he had talked on the subject, Mr. Kinkead said, believed that nothing but the hand of God could prevent Wilson's election if nominated.

ARDEN SHOCKED AT SCANDAL

Home of Auther Sinclair's Followers Exalted Over Separation.

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 25.—Arden, the single tax-Sinclair colony, received today the news that the community's ideal marriage was to go the way of the abandoned divorcee court.

All day the residents of the so-called "ideal city" discussed the matrimonial troubles of Upton Sinclair, but it was not until Mrs. William M. Fuller, mother of Meta Fuller Sinclair, wife of the author, arrived and took possession of the cottage that the excitement reached a climax. Mrs. Fuller has made it plain that she will take a neutral stand in the matter of the impending divorce for the sake of her grandson, David Sinclair.

Mrs. Fuller is the wife of the clerk of the court of special sessions in New York.

Judah Carried Captive to Babylon, Jer. xxxix.

Golden Text.—Be sure your sin will find you out. Num. xxxii:23.

(1.) Verses 1-2.—When a historian gives the day, the month, and the year an event took place, and associates his facts with some other well-known fact, how much weight does that give to the credibility of his story?

(2.) How long did the siege of Jerusalem last before the city was captured?

(3.) What were the chief means by which the city was taken? (See 2 Kings xx:1-2.)

(4.) Verses 3-4.—What was the real reason for the downfall of Judah and the capture of Jerusalem?

(5.) When a nation gives itself up to a life of sin how much risk is there in prophesying its downfall unless it repents?

(6.) If the "princes" of the soul (memory, conscience, will power, and the reverence of God, forsake their position at the gate of the citadel, what other princes are certain to take their places?

(7.) Verses 5-6.—Sinners are generally very brave when in health and prosperity, but when trouble, or death, strikes them in the face what generally happens?

(8.) Was there a time, and when, that Zedekiah could have taken such steps as would have kept him on his throne and made himself and people prosperous and happy? (See 2 Chron. xxxvi:11-13.)

(9.) What is the Golden Text for today, and what is the proof that sin will finally destroy happiness and true prosperity?

(10.) Verse 7.—Zedekiah fled from the enemy but was overtaken; when does the time come in the life of a sinner when his habits have become like his shadow, which he cannot outrun?

(11.) Verses 8-9.—What had been the crime against Nebuchadnezzar of which Zedekiah was guilty? What would be the penalty of a similar crime today?

(12.) What was Zedekiah's sin against God, and that of the other bad kings of Judah who had preceded him?

(13.) What was Zedekiah's punishment?

(14.) See Jer. li:3; Ezek. xli:13, where the fate of Zedekiah is foretold, and compare with v.7 and point out a striking fulfillment and explanation of apparently contradictory prophecy.

(15.) Verse 8.—Why is it in God's moral government that the innocent often have to suffer, as well as the guilty?

(16.) Verses 24-26.—What class of people did they carry away to Babylon and what class allow to remain in Judah?

(17.) What part of a man's nature does sin destroy, and what part does it leave?

(18.) Verses 11-14.—What did the King of Babylon do for Jeremiah, and what is generally the final lot of a man of God?

(19.) Verse 15.—What good had Ebed-melech done to be so signally favored of God? (See Jer. xxxviii:7-13.)

(20.) What reason is there to think that God never forgets a good deed done to one of his children? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Christ Church: The Rev. Jno. McKinnon, rector, will be a celebrant of the Holy Communion at 8 a. m. on Sunday morning, Aug. 27th, and evening prayer at 4 p. m., followed by the Sacrament of Baptism.

Hack Horse Told: In rushing a passenger to the ten o'clock interurban car last evening, which had just pulled out of the station, one of the drivers for the Russell hack line turned too abrupt a corner at Main and Milwaukee streets and one of the animals fell down. The floundering of the horse also caused the other one to fall. Both animals, however, got to their feet again, apparently unhurt, after a few minutes.

Auto Parties: E. P. Carpenter, J. M. Gooding, and W. V. Milligan of Fond du Lac were members of an auto party registered at the Grand hotel yesterday. Guests at the hotel held yesterday were: Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Garner, Leat River, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Quinn and Mr. and Mrs. T. McAlernan of Peoria.

Farmer Thrown From Rig: The neglect of a cement contractor who failed to place red lanterns about a pile of material and mortar box which were being used in the construction of cement curb and gutter on South Main street, caused a farmer who was driving down the street last night, to drive over the mortar box. The man was thrown from his buggy as the result of the accident, but as far as could be learned was not badly hurt. The accident occurred near the corner of Carroll street. Street Commissioner Dan Wilkins was notified of the occurrence and a red lantern was put up at the place for the rest of the night.

Run Is Changed: Conductor George Howland, who has been conductor on the passenger run between Jamesville and Davis Junction for the past three years, has changed to the passenger run between Racine and Freeport, on the Milwaukee road. The change will probably necessitate Conductor Howland's moving from the city.

WARNINGS AGAINST COMPENSATION ACT

State Fire Marshal Purcell Issues a Pamphlet on "Home Fire Dangers" Warning All Householders.

"Home Fire Dangers" is the title of a circular letter issued by State Fire Marshal T. M. Purcell warning against common causes of fires in homes. In part it says:

Use a perfect stove. If the stove is cracked, fire is liable to fall on the floor. Have metal protection under the stove and back of it. If within two feet of the wall. Do not place kindling in the oven. Never leave wood in the oven over night. Do not hang clothing near the stove or stove-pipe. Never use kerosene to kindle the fire nor allow your help to do so.

Defective chimneys cause many fires. Have them examined by an expert and repaired, if necessary. Have them cleaned once a year at least.

Never use the parlor or crack head match; the safety match costs no more. Keep phosphorous matches in a metal receptacle with cover. Never allow your children to play with matches. The hazard to their lives and to your home is too great. Do not throw matches in the wood box or receptacle containing papers.

Keep kerosene in a metal can. Allow no filling of lamps or kerosene oil stove by artificial light.

This is especially dangerous. Keep it in an air-tight metal can, marked "GASOLINE." Never take gasoline from the can by lamp-light, nor fill the gasoline stove when there is any fire around. Never use gasoline for cleaning near a fire or lamp. If you must use it, go outdoors.

When painting or varnishing is done in your home, be sure that no oily rags are left lying around. Destroy them. This also applies to mops used on freshly varnished floors. Keep paint oils and varnishes in closed receptacles.

If you have gas in the house, make sure of an outside shut-off. Never allow swinging gas brackets to be installed. Gas brackets near windows are bad, as the window curtains are liable to flap against the jet, catch fire, and in turn set the house on fire.

These have brought new dangers to the home. The electric iron should rest on a metal standard. When not using the iron turn off the current. Let this become a fixed habit. Electric toasters, warmers, etc., should rest on metal base. Do not use electric bed warmers. These appliances are often attached to already overloaded wires with disastrous results. Never allow incompetent workmen to tamper with the wiring or attaching appliances. Never use paper shades or paper or cotton decorations on your electric lamps or wires. Do not hang drop cords over walls or pipes or suspend them by wires.

Do not store excelsior or other inflammable stuff in the cellar. The dampness may cause combustion. Rubbish should not be allowed to accumulate in cellar, garret or elsewhere. Have the leaves and rubbish around the house raked up. A careless passer-by may cause a fire by throwing a cigar stub or match.

Allow none of these near any building or on a windy day; the danger is too great.

The defective shingle roof is the best kind of a fire catcher. Have it repaired. Insist on fire-proof roofs on new buildings.

Your husband and sons ought to know enough not to smoke in bed. Cigarettes are especially dangerous from a standpoint of fire.

Fire should be man's servant, never his master. Hate fire, the "RED PLAQUE," as you would the black plague. Fire prevention in your home is better than an obituary over the remains of your loved ones or the sympathy of your neighbors over your property loss.

Hand Tailoring Is Expressive Of An Individuality Of Style And Workmanship

Now is the time to order your Fall suit while there is plenty of time to get it out. The rush will be on soon and there is always a delay at such times.

The patterns this Fall are varied enough to suit every taste. The present tendency seems to be to get away from the conspicuously fancy fabrics which have been in vogue so long, and neater and quieter patterns have taken their place.

Among the many beautiful patterns which we are showing are the Georgian Coronation, Gray Soft Finish Novelty Diagonals, Soft Finish Cassimeres, "Tartan" colorings, Chanticleer Cloths, Fancy Cheviot in the Basket and Hop Sack weaves in beautiful Brown, Gun Club Checks in the grays and browns, Bannockburns and Homespuns. Neatness is emphasized in the range of Worsted Fabrics, grey stripes, hair lines, pencil stripes, slate or blue wide wales.

Overcoating materials have an attractive range of fancy woolen stuffs, in the Browns, Staple Shetlands in the Greys, Blues and Blacks.

We stand back of every garment we make—Our tailoring warrants this. Come in and look over or line of samples and get our prices.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

ACROSS the way from me lives an unmarried woman about fifty years old, who has recently been obliged by ill health to give up the clerical position which she has held for thirty years.

Naturally, she is appalled by the amount of time which she finds awaiting her disposal, and scarcely knows how to hide away the sixteen waking hours that must be gotten rid of every day in some way or other. I was sitting on her veranda the other evening just at twilight when the stars were beginning to come out, and with more animation than I had seen her show since her illness, she pointed out several of the different stars and constellations to me.

"You understand astronomy?" I said.

She sighed. "A very little. I wish I knew more, for it gives me so much pleasure. When I am stronger, I think I shall try to study it. I can't regret enough that I didn't learn more about botany and zoology and all the arts and sciences in my youth, for every bit of knowledge would have been one more interest in life to me now, when I need interests so much."

"Knowledge means interest," I said.

Interest means a full life.

A full life means a happy one.

How many people take a lifetime to learn these simple equations.

And how many people never learn them at all.

Any interest, however trifling, adds happiness to life. I know a man who has to travel a great deal by automobile, who finds great diversion in learning to identify the different states by the colors on the number cards of the various machines he passes.

"Think how much more happiness the man who knows the different bird calls can get out of a walk in the woods than he to whom they are nothing but a jargon of meaningless sounds."

In a suggestive little book on "how to live on twenty-four hours a day," a well-known English essayist advises the man who simply enjoys in a general way listening to a concert to multiply his enjoyment by making himself familiar with the construction of the orchestra. The result, he promises, would be that, "instead of a confused mass, the orchestra would appear to you as what it is—a marvelously balanced organism whose various groups of members have each a different and an indispensable function. You would see out the instruments and listen to their respective sounds. You would know the part that separates a French horn from an English horn, and you would perceive why a player of the hautboy gets higher notes than a fiddler, though the fiddle is the more difficult instrument. You would LIVE in a promenade concert, whereas previously you had merely existed there in a state of coma, like a baby gazing at a bright object."

Now, the same sort of an investment would give the same results in any line.

Let the man who enjoys good pictures multiply his enjoyment by learning something definite about different schools of art.

Let the man who is interested in politics study some of the principles of government and public law.

Knowledge means interest.

A full life means happiness.

He who will may have knowledge. Hence, he who will may have happiness.

Will you?

Gives Some Reflections on Life From the Viewpoint of the Poor.

IF I were a beggar," said the Candid Girl.

"Which you will be," interrupted Aunt severely, "if you keep on with your extravagance."

"As I was saying," went on the Candid Girl serenely, "if I were a beggar, I would have a much warmer feeling in my heart for the one who tucked in a flower or some candy or cake in the basket of food she brought me, than I would for the one who considered only oatmeal and beans. Candy or flowers might not be good for my soul, and they might not give me as much energy to do a washing as oatmeal; but they certainly would bring a satisfaction to the inner spirit that oatmeal never could touch."

"Rubbish," said Aunt. "When a person is hungry, he wants something substantial."

"Quite true, I'm not saying not to give the substantial, but give a little of the insubstantial in addition. I'm not sure the message of a flower might not invigorate a washwoman's arm quite as much as a morsel of putage."

"Sentiment," sniffed Aunt.

"And if I were a beggar, I would hate to be told that the reason I didn't work was because I was lazy; when the real reason was because I was so faint from hunger, I hadn't a grain of energy in me. Were you ever so faint from being hungry, Aunt, that you could scarcely walk?"

Aunt refused to answer so foolish a question.

"I was once," went on the Candid Girl, "when we were camping and got lost. And I know now that when some of these poor people you got to work scarcely seem to move, it's not because they are lazy, but because they are weak from lack of food. Instead of making them work first and feeding them afterward when you see what they can do, I'd feed them first, and then they have a fair show to demonstrate what they can do. The stomach has an awful power over one, hasn't it?" said the Candid Girl meditatively.

Aunt sewed on.

"And if I were real poor, and had to take in washing or something like that, I would hate to be lectured about keeping the house neat, and mending the children's clothes and all that, when I was so dog-tired at night that all I could do was to drop down and sleep in order that I could work some more tomorrow. A woman who does that has a better idea of economic values than the one who wants her to do ten cents' worth of patching, and thereby lose fifty cents' worth of time."

"You'd train people to be shiftless," said Aunt.

"Not at all. I believe in patching, if possible. But when it is a grim hand-to-hand fight with starvation, the fighter should employ her time and strength most profitably. There's a limit to human endurance. She can't work all day and mend all night. Therefore, she had better do that which most surely keeps the wolf from poking his nose in at the door."

"It seems to me that a good way to get a line on solving the problems of the poor," went on the Candid Girl, "would be to live like them for awhile, actually hungry and inadequately clothed, and all that. No then could go to them with that flow feeling that makes us wondrous kind. And the feeling of comradeship and fellowship helps the poor, in our help, quite as much as the food and clothing we bring them."

But Aunt refused to be drawn into an argument. Was she not President of the Relief Society of her church, and did she not know from actual experience what was the best way to help the poor?

American Shoe in Switzerland.

The American shoe has become permanently established in Switzerland because of its superior style, finish and durability. The special designs and fads affected by some manufacturers, such as extension soles, extreme wide toes, crooked lasts and fancy carved uppers are not popular in the Swiss market, however, the demand being for plain, medium-weight shoes with heavy soles.

Being Original and Being Queer.

After the human race has been at work on its chief problems for thousands of years, the man who ignores all that has been accomplished and is consumed with the ambition to be original, is pretty certain to end by being simply queer.—Nicholas Murray Butler in "Philosophy."

Keep the Children Busy.

Teach the children to do little things about the home. It trains them to be useful, not awkward in later and more important affairs; it gives them occupation while they are small and it guards against selfish, idle, unhandy members of an older society. Occupation makes happiness, and occupation cannot be acquired too young.

Deggar's Strange Collection.

A quaint kit was that of a tramp who was charged at Kingston (Ireland) recently with begging. When searched he was found to have sixty-one lead pencils, four pairs of spectacles, two knives, three linen collars, three boxes of matches, a kit-bag, a looking-glass, a boot brush, two pairs of laces, a magnifying glass, a pipe and four-pence-halfpenny.

CHEESE DELICACIES.

Cheese is so wholesome and may be used in so many combinations of food that any new and unusual ways of serving it are always welcome.

A piece an inch square, if grated, will season a dish, and the interest scrap should always be saved. When there are a few pieces that have become dry, grate them, add a little cream, salt and pepper, a dash of tabasco and a few drops of Worcester's sauce, put into the little jars in which the cream cheeses come and keep in the ice chest. It will keep several weeks. Such cheese makes fine filling for sandwiches, and it is nice to have some on hand for emergencies.

A few tablespoonfuls of grated cheese sprinkled over an omelet just before folding adds to the delicacy of an omelet.

Cheese and Olive Salad.—Mash a cream cheese, moisten with cream, and season with salt and cayenne. Add six olives chopped fine, a half of a red pepper cut in strips and a little shredded lettuce. Press into the original shape of the cheese, and let stand two hours. Cut in slices, serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

Cheese with rice makes a nutritive dish. Cook the rice until the grains are tender, put a layer into a buttered baking dish, season with salt and pour over a few tablespoonfuls of thick white sauce. Sprinkle generously with grated cheese. Broast and finish the top with buttered crumbs. Bake until brown.

Cheese Canapés.—Toast circular pieces of bread, sprinkle with a thick layer of grated cheese, then season with salt and cayenne and place on a baking sheet and put in the hot oven to melt the cheese. Serve at once.

Cheese Dreams.—Cut slices of bread very thin, remove the crusts. Cut with a biscuit cutter into rounds, cover with thin slices of cheese, sprinkle with salt and cayenne, lay on another round of bread and saute in hot butter. When both sides are a golden brown serve at once.

Miss Marie Campbell, whose engagement to Graham White was recently announced.

Boston, Mass.—Miss Marie Campbell and Graham White, the famous English aviator, are soon to be married after one of the few romances of aviation. Miss Campbell was the first to take an air trip with Graham White and it is said that her nerve and cool-headedness on this trip won the English aviator completely.

Previous to this, rumors have been current to the effect that first the English aviator was to marry Eleanor Sears, and later that he was to marry Pauline Chase, the famous actress, but Miss Campbell seems to be the final choice of the air pilot.

OCCUPATIONS WHICH LEAD IN CANCER STATISTICS.

Statistics drawn from the late census show that the occupations most contributory to cancer are butcher, tailor and gardener. The dietetic theory of the cause of this disease—the material factor in the cause—can readily explain why the butcher and the gardener should be more liable than others, corresponding with the accurate English statistics for fifty years, which place traveling men, coachmen, hotel keepers and domestic servants first, except chimney sweeps. If the tailor has the average bill of fare his lack of exercise favors the accumulation of waste matter in the system—and perhaps his extra worry about his bills magnifies the mental factor in his case. Soot favors the retention of waste more than coal because it, like salt, is less soluble, and being very fine permeates the tissues. The brues or irritation provides the local ground for the tumor, but the disease is primarily and fundamentally in the blood, and blood is made from food influenced by mental condition and kept pure by normal elimination. Simple diet, right physical and mental exercise will keep one immune from cancer, and all other diseases.

FREEDOM FROM FLIES.

THE GRANDDEST Fourth of July celebration ever known in America was planned this year for Worcester, Mass., by Dr. Clifton Hodges, Professor of Biology at Clark University. It was safe, sane, and educational, but not in the cut and dried sense that makes the boys say they would rather have one 5-cent bunch of firecrackers than the whole package. Fun for the children, no hard work for the grown-ups! Cheap, enterprising, too! Just this—one newspaper, instead of offering a pony or a trip to Europe for subscribers, offered $500 in prizes for the most kills, plants, quarts of flies that the boys and girls turned in on the Fourth of July.

One day Mr. Hodges' thirteen-year-old boy asked, looking at a screen covered with flies, "Why not put the flies in jail, and let ourselves out?" That started the outdoor campaign. His father invented a trap to catch them in their breeding and feeding places, and tried it in his own dooryard successfully. Now the cry is, "Flyless Worcester!" What a declaration of freedom, what a glorious Independence Day!

Why not "Flyless America?" We could bring it to pass if only women had the faith and enthusiasm of this man Hodges. It is not such a hopeless undertaking. One does not have to kill all of a species to exterminate it. The fly pest will succumb to the ravages of war. Are not our lakes and streams depleted of fish in a few years just by fishing, and that, too, in spite of game laws and fish hatcheries. A war of independence, a war of extermination, let us all enlist. Children, women, men, swim, kill, trap, poison! No commissioned officers—all soldiers in a great social service.

A FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY WAR STORY
BY F. A. MITCHELL.

CHAPTER IX. FLOATING FOR LIFE.

MARK had very little idea how long a time would elapse before it would be discovered that Sour was in his place and he had escaped. It might be a few minutes, it might be half an hour, it might possibly be not till morning.

though of this he had little hope. He believed that within half an hour he would be pursued by bloodhounds.

He had been about the town enough to know the direction of the river and started toward it. He was at home in the water, and determined that he would attempt to find a boat, but would plunge in and swim for his life. The width of the river at Chattanooga was only about three-quarters of a mile, and Mark did not regard this a great distance for a good swimmer. Once across the dogs would have to pick up the scent on the other side, and if he should permit the current to carry him far down the stream the difficulty in doing so would be greatly increased.

It was a soft summer evening, and the larger stars had already begun to shine. Casting a glance to the right he saw a streak of light over Missionary ridge and knew that before long he would be at a disadvantage from the rising of a full moon. He walked briskly whenever any person was in sight, and when he thought that he was unobserved he ran.

No one of the few people who passed the strapping negro girl, whose face was hidden within the blue check sun-bonnet, dreamed that a Union soldier was passing; that the scaffold was being erected; that a messenger with the secret of one of the most important moves any Confederate general had made or was destined to make during the war was on his way north. In the person of the negro woman hurrying on toward the river.

He sped onward, running and walking briskly alternately, till he came to a place where a board fence was capped by a narrow strip. He mounted it and walked as far as the fence extended, perhaps a hundred yards, hoping by this means to throw the dogs off the scent for a few minutes, and thus gain a little time. Then he jumped down and hurried forward. A man passed and called to him, but he paid no attention to the call, and the man stood looking after him, doubtless suspecting that the girl was a runaway slave.

At last the grateful sight of the river met his gaze. He cheered him and seemed to beckon him on to rest upon its bosom, or, as an alternative to the dreadful tragedy of the morning, to find oblivion beneath its surface.

He stood for a moment beneath a low clump of trees on the bank listening and looking up and down the river. A boat was passing, and he felt it necessary to wait for it to go by. He lost five minutes, but it seemed half an hour. Then taking off his dress and shoes and bonnet he put the dress and the shoes in the bonnet and tied the strings around his neck, resting the bundle on his back. Going down to the margin, and again listening a moment to make sure he was not observed, he waded out as far as he could touch bottom, and then began to swim.

As it was midsummer he had expected to find the water warm. His expectations were realized to a reasonable degree, and he felt that he could remain in it a long while without being chilled. His plan was to drift down a considerable distance. He might be expected to swim across as rapidly as he could, and the current in this case would land him perhaps a mile below the town. Those who would follow him with dogs would doubtless track him to the river margin, then take the dogs across and endeavor to pick up the scent some distance below on the other side. Mark had weighed all these circumstances, and determined to drift down as far as possible, land at the mouth of a creek if he could find one, enter it and swim or walk up it in the water, thus rendering it difficult for the dogs to track him.

He swam slowly till he reached the middle of the river; then, floating with scarcely any motion of his hands and feet, he permitted himself to drift down with the current. A favorite way with him, when a boy, of resting in the water, had been to float on his back. Unmindful of the wetting he would give the clothes tied around his neck, he turned over and drifted with his arms spread beside him, his eyes turned directly to the sky.

In the position on his back he could only look upward at the stars. There was the great dome above him spangled with myriads of bright points and spanned by the "milky way." He had always been fond of the stars, and in order to divert his mind picked out some of his favorites and traced a few constellations with which he was familiar. In this way he diverted his mind until his nerves became quite steady.

His observations were suddenly checked by a sound. It was very faint, but enough to freeze the marrow in his bones. It was the distant bark of a dog. He listened and presently could hear more. Evidently there was a pack. They drew nearer. Then they ceased for awhile. Perhaps they had come to the place where he had walked on the fence. Then the barks began again, growing only slightly louder as they came, for Mark was floating rapidly from the point where he had entered the river.

He involuntarily turned over on his chest and struck out lustily. The current was swift; swimming would not add to his safety—it would only tax his strength and render him more liable to recapture on the other shore. But swim he must. With the terrible sound of those dogs in his ears he could not lie idly on the water and leave the current to bear him onward.

Soon there came another cessation of sound from the dogs far above on the shore, and Mark judged that they had lost the scent at the place where he had entered the water.

Then he began to think of Sour and Jakey. What had they done to Sour when they had discovered her trick?

Would they punish her? Would they treat her harshly? He was comforted by the thought that there would be nothing gained by this—it would not bring the prisoner back—but he muttered a prayer for the girl who had placed herself behind those prison bars, who had incurred the rage of his jailers to save him.

He heard no more of the dogs and floated on, swimming and resting alternately. The high bluffs of Missionary point were before him on his right. An owl on their summit, watching the rising moon, occasionally gave a dismal hoot, the intervals being supplied by the melancholy whippoorwill. The current bore him on around the point, carrying him in near the shore where he had passed the picket with the sleeping Jakey in his arms a few nights before. So close was he that he could see a man walking back and forth on the very beat of the one he had passed. As he drifted away he saw the relief approach and the picket changed.

He was borne directly under Look-out mountain, and on down for a mile to a point where the river makes another bend. Here the bank was low, and as Mark was getting chilled he swam to the southern bank for rest. He laid himself down for a few moments on the dry ground, and then getting up walked back and forth rapidly, swinging his arms at the same time to restore circulation and fit him to endure a longer stay in the water. He looked about for some place of wood on which he might float farther. There were logs of various sizes scattered around, but most of them were rotten. He was so much at home in the water that he was not disappointed on failing to find one suitable to his purpose.

Plunging in again he moved on down past the bluff at the foot of the Race-crook mountain, swimming on his chest most of the time and keeping a

Amount of Intelligence Needed.

James Hamilton Lewis, attorney-at-law and demonstrator of pink whiskers as successful facial adornments, became annoyed by the continual questioning of a newspaper reporter who wanted to find out something new about a case in which Lewis was interested. "Why," exclaimed Lewis curtly, "you evidently know more about this case than I do." You apparently have more sense than I have," "I have to," responded the reporter, "in order to hold my job." This amused Lewis so much that he gave the newspaper man all the information he wanted.—Popular Magazine.

Gamblers have many charms to insure good luck when playing. Among these are a fine catkin hung from the neck, a human knee bone or toe bone, an owl's heart, a small red feather, a mole's foot, a rabbit's foot, the tail of a lizard, the skin of a blacksnake worn around the waist or a lizard with two tails.
